Amelia Drew

Junior Research Fellow, Homerton College

Studying radiation from cosmic strings using high performance computing, numerical relativity

A woman that inspires me

All the incredible female researchers I have met throughout my PhD and career so far, particularly their resilience and strength in an often challenging environment

Advice I would give my younger self

Take the pressure off yourself, and remember to enjoy working in such a fascinating field!